THE celebrated Belle Boyd was a prisoner at Fort Lafayette at the time Mat Mahoney, the author of "Prisoner of State," was confined there. In his work we find a very interesting account of the various prisoners immured within the walls of the Fort, and of the many incidents that occurred among them during the weary months of his imprisonment. Of Belle Boyd, he says:

"I heard her voice the first night is prison singing—
"Maryland, my Maryland," the first time I ever heard that Southern song. The words, stirring enough to Southern hearts, were enunciated by her with such peculiar expression as to touch even sensibilities which did not sympathize with the cause which inspired the song.
It was difficult to listen unmoved to this lady throwing her whole soul as it were into the expression of sentiments of devotion to the South, defiance to the North, and affectionately confident anguals to Maryland which form that off the prominent Democrat whose excuaffectionately confident appeals to Maryland which form the burden of that celebrated song. The pathos of her voice, her apparently forlorn condition, and at these times when her soul seemed absorbed in the thoughts she was attering in song, her melancholy manner, affected all-who heard her, but with an interest in her that came who heard are, but with an increase an her that came hear on several occasions bringing about a conflict be-tween the prisoners and the guards. Although the words of this celebrated seng have been published frequently and extensively in the Northern papers, some might see at for the first time by reproducing it here."

"MARYLAND, MY MARYLAND,"

The despot's heel is on thy shore,
Maryland!
His torch is at thy temple door, Maryland

Avenge the patriotic gore
That wept o'er gallant Baltimore,
And be the battle queen of yore,
Maryland, my Maryland!

Hark to a wandering son's appeal, - Maryland!
My mother State, to thee I kneel,
Maryland! For life and death, for woe and weak, Thy peerless chivalry reveal, And gird thy be uteous limbs with steel, Maryland, my Maryland!

Thou wilt not cower in the dust, Thy beaming sword shall never rust, Maryland! Remember Carroll's secred trust, Remember Howard's warlike thrust, And all thy slumber'rs with the just, Maryland, my Maryland!

Come! 'tis the red dawn of the day, Maryland! Come with thy panoplied array,
Maryland!
With Ringgold's spirit for the fray, With Watson's blood at Monterey, With fearless Lowe and dashing May Maryland, my Maryland!

Dear mother! burst the tyrant's chain, Maryland!
Virginia should not call in vain,
Maryland!
She meets her sisters on the plain, "Sio Semper," 'tis her proud refrain, That baffles minions back amain, Maryland, my Maryland!

Come! for thy shield is bright and strong, Maryland!

Come, for thy dalliance does thee wrong, Maryland! Come to thing own heroic throng, That stalks with liberty along, And gives a new key to thy song, Maryland, my Marylaud!

I see the blush upon thy cheek, Maryland! But thou wert ever bravely meek, Maryland! But lo! there surges forth a shriek, From hill to hill, from creek to creek; Potomac calls to Chesapeake, Maryland, my Maryland!

Thou wilt not yield the vandal toll. Thou wift not crook to his control,

Better the fire upon thee roll, Better the shot, the blade, the bowl, Than cracifixion of the soul, Maryland, my Maryland!

Hear the distant thunder hum, Maryland! The Old Line's bugle, fife and dram, Maryland! She is not dead, nor deaf, nor dearb— Huzzah! she spurns the no thern scum! She breathes-she burns- she'll come, she'll come, Maryland, my Maryland!

Mexico.-Rains commenced later than usual in the northwestern States. It ceased after pouring down two days. A hot and oppressive atmosphere, causing considerable sickness, followed. A letter by the last steamer says it was the hottest and most sickly season they have had in and around Mazatlan for years, and that it was more fatal to natives than to foreigners. A letter is a grave question to decide whether her from Gen. Shields says: "I write in the husband—provided she has one—should be midst of au hospital of sick people and have called by courtesy, Rev. Are the Territorial Funds in Danger.

This question is creating considerable uneasiness in official circles as well as with the honest tax-paying people of the Territory. It seems by the "Age," that the northern counties show a clean sheet and that the money received bas been properly accounted for by the Territorial Treasurer. But according to the statement of the County Treasurer of Boise, he should have some $10,000 or attend. mere now in his hands which should long since have found its way into the hands of the Treasurer of the Territory and been disbursed to her creditors. True, some $5,000 was forwarded about three weeks previous to election, with the promise that some eleven thousand, then in hand, would follow forthwith. We shrewdly suspect, however, that the fact of that amount being due a prominent Democrat, whose influence seemed to be confidently anticipated by the "authorities that be," and those that hoped to be, had more to do with that remittance than said parties official would like to acknowledge I wonder if our worthy Springfield Judge did not feel a little "sold" in that affair? However, be this as it may, since the election no package has arrived from that locality, for our anxious Secretary of the Territory, and these who claim to be posted hint very strongly that large sums were borrowed to stake upon the ticket in the last election. I have no doubt but this is a mere slander, but in order to keep the people who support these public paupers, advised of the scandal that is being circulated about their officials, I deem it proper to thus revert to the subject. that of the prominent Democrat whose excusable device procured the payment of his six thousand dollar warrant .- [Lewiston Cor. FROM KOOTENAY .- The latest advices from the above-named camp are obtained from resident parties just in. They represent everything as prosperous and peaceable, and the weather clear and cool-in some instances impeding mining operations. Claims opened were paying from forty to eighty ounces per day-several averaging from sixty to eighty ounces per day on weekly runs .-Messrs. Reese & Co. are constructing an additional ditch, which it is calculated will supply the camp with water sufficient to work all the claims recorded. Several parties had fitted out for the purpose of spending the Winter prospecting on the head waters of the Columbia, previous explorations in that region having induced the hope of success. Prices of staples range medium. Flour, 36c; bacon, 75c; sugar, 50c; coffee, 75c; beans, 50c; tea. $2; tobacco, $2; whisky, scarce at $12 to $15 per gallon; all kinds of dry-goods very scare. The grass on the road was very poor-one stretch of one hundred and fifty miles entirely barren. Many animals "weak ened" in consequence, and were necessarily left on the way. Warren & Co. have established a new ferry at the crossing of Kootenai river, fifteen miles from Tobacco Plains, which, by keeping up the river, shortens and betters the trail by avoiding a very bad portion of the old road, known as the Moyea. This route can be traveled nearly or quite all Winter. Parties are engaged in viewing a route from Fisherville to the Pen d'Oreille lake via Tobacco Plains. Gold Commissioner Haines and party were to have !eft the diggings about the first of the present month. -[Age.

"LOYAL IRISH!"-No Irish, in or out of Ireland, ever understood this term as having any other meaning than Orangeman, before this year of our Lord, 1864. Loyalty is found where Royalty governs, and that a free man should apply it to his equal, or servant, is absurd. It is not American in word or idea, and God grant it never may be. As we read it now, it is significant of the future purposes of those by whom it is used .- [Oc-
